

Letter in Reply: Thrombophilic Evaluation in Cases of Cerebral Venous Sinus Thrombosis

Sudhir Kumar Palat Chirakkara

Department of Neurology, Mafraq Hospital, Abu Dhabi, UAE

ARTICLE INFO

Article history:

Received: 13 March 2018

Accepted: 13 March 2018

ONLINE:

DOI 10.5001/omj.2018.100

Dear Editor,

We would like to thank Drs. Helia Hemmasian and Atousa Hakamifard for their valuable comments. We agree that the diagnosis of cerebral venous sinus thrombosis needs high degree of suspicion and the focus of investigation must be based on the given clinical context.¹ Hence, we conducted all relevant tests based on the clinical situation. After all, we should not miss the elephant in the room.

REFERENCE

1. Sasidharan PK. Cerebral vein thrombosis misdiagnosed and mismanaged. Thrombosis 2012;2012:210676.